HISTORY OF PRAIRIE RONDE BAPTIST CHURCH

Lest We Forget

The Pointe au Pain Baptist Church located south of Eunice, in the Fry community, whose pastor was Rev. Maurice Thibodeaux, had members with a son living in the Prairie Ronde community. They brought their son, Claude Diaville, to the church to hear the gospel, where he was converted and baptized. After Claude Diaville's conversion, he invited Rev. Thibodeaux to come to the Prairie Ronde community to hold services in his home. Benches were arranged in front of the porch and services were held. Many came for the services, showing interest in hearing more, therefore plans were made to hold services there on Saturday night. Saturday night the crowd was larger, but some came to break up the service. A shooting incident broke up the service and made it necessary to find another meeting place.

Sunday morning services were held in the home of Pancho Diaville. Also for a time services were held under a brush arbor.

A week or two later a wagon load from the Prairie Ronde community went to the Pointe au Pain church. Nineteen were converted and baptized the next day in the bayou south of Eunice, near the railroad bridge. Some of these were Mr. & Mrs. Ledo Pitre, Mr. & Mrs. Amos Pitre, Pancho Diaville family, and others. This group formed a mission, meeting in the home of Artimone Pitre with Rev. Michelle Sallassie as pastor. Later Rev. Lucien Smith held a revival when "Noncle Jim" Bertrand and some of his family was converted. The date when this group organized into the Prairie Ronde Baptist Church is approximately 1924. The church grew, obtained land to build a church building and for a cemetery to bury their dead. The land was a donation without any deed given to the church. Later the donors' property was sold without reserving the church and cemetery property. This killed the work of the church, which then disbanded and the membership was brought to the Lejeune Memorial Baptist Church of Eunice.

Through the efforts of Rev. Adea Vidrine and with the help of the First Baptist Church of Ville Platte; on March 4, 1934 thirty four (34) persons with letters from the Ville Platte church met at Prairie Ronde and reorganized themselves into the Prairie Ronde Baptist Church. Rev. Adea Vidrine was called as pastor and Bro. Elton Granger was elected clerk of the church.

The majority of the church members were share croppers. The finances were low. The pastors were paid sometimes with produce such as rice, potatoes, geese, ducks, chickens and such. According to the church records their salaries were sometimes as much as $2.02 a month or even as high as $2.62 a month depending on the offerings collected. One revival pastor received fifty (50) pounds of rice, one (1) goose and $7.47 in cash. It was recorded their revivals were usually for two weeks.

Through many hardships and trials and through much joy and love the work of this church has persevered with the help and support of our Lord and Savior. AMEN!
